THE "REPARATIONS RAID"

THE "REPARATIONS RAID"

The Department of Justice is suing the railroads for more than $2,000,000,000, which, it alleges, was the total of overcharges made by the lines in currying freight during the war. The final decision will have to be reached by the courts and by fact-finding bodies such as the Interstate Commerce Commission. In the meantime, however, there are certain facts the public ought to know.

The railroad freight rates on war cargo were established by agreement between the carriers and governmental agencies and officials. They were below the going commercial rate for the same kind of haul Here is one example: the industry hauled aluminum airplane land mats from Chicago to San Francisco. The normal commercial rate was $3.86 a hundrad-weight. The agreed rate to the government was $1.40. Now the Justice Department holds that the rate should have been 44 cents less land grant reductions—or about one-tenth, of the commercial rate!

During the for war years, the government paid Class 1 railroads $5,000,000,000 in freight charges. Over $3,660,000.000 went back to the government in Federal taxes. So, if the $2,000,000,000 suit is successful, the railroads would not have a single, solltary penny for the magnificent freight service they per formed for the government in prosecuting the war. According to the Railway Employees Journal of Chicago. "The Department of Justice 'reparations raid' on the railroads is not proving as popular as the politicians who started it expected." The organized shippers, representing industry and agriculture, are opposing it with all the energy at their command. No one seems to know why the action was brought after government agencies had agreed to war freight rates. This is a good example of "Royal Thievery" as practiced by governments, and so vividy described by Harry Scherman in his book "Promises Men Live By."

WHO SAYS

Land sakes, you're got your youth, haven't you — the best part of your lives to live? And work to portunity! My goodness - the whole world needs things we can make, and get out of our land, and raise on it. Seems like a need it will take generations to supply. Why, there's a good living ahead of all of you for years to come. . . . And what about the fact that, you are bucky enough to be in a country where ment, worship as you please, talk as you please, do as you please?... And look at the material things you years to your lives!

Oh, of course I know there's a housing shortage, and high prices and even the threat of the atom homb. But aren't those all things that you young folks can lick if you'll only set your minds to it? Sure, were can't Unbiased tests proved Dithane D-14 and "Neutral Copper" best for celery disease control. That's the verdict of the Everglades Experiment Station, Belle Glade, Fla.

The Belle Glade station has tested a number of fungicides. On the basis of their actual field results, the station now recommends a program of alternate spraying—twice with Dithane D-14 and once with a "Neutral Copper" on a 4 to 5 day schedule.
